Overview of DBHR Services and Funding: 2013-2015

Description	The Division of Behavioral Health and Recovery is part of the Behavioral Health and Service Integration Administration (BHSIA). DBHR and BHSIA are part of DSHS (view our mission and core values). We fund and oversee quality services for youth substance abuse prevention and intervention, inpatient treatment, outpatient treatment, and recovery support to people with addiction and mental health needs. With our community, state, and national partners, we are committed to providing evidence-based, cost-effective services that support the health and well-being of individuals, families, and communities in Washington State. Our research documents the economic, social, and health benefits that result from providing quality behavioral health services, which far outweigh the costs of providing them. These benefits include lower crime and criminal justice-related costs, lower medical costs, less reliance on public assistance, higher rates of employment and worker productivity, fewer children in need of foster care, and increased high school completion rates.
Services and Eligibility	Mental Health Community Mental Health Services: Funding for community services under managed care provides financial support and program direction to Regional Support Networks (RSNs) for community mental health programs. This is for services that don't qualify for Medicaid and for people who are ineligible for Medicaid. Services are provided according to the approved state plan federal waiver for Medicaid enrollees. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Outpatient services <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ crisis service ○ evaluation and treatment ○ residential treatment • In-patient treatment Programs provide services for both voluntary and involuntary individuals through the Involuntary Treatment Act (ITA) for the acutely mentally ill, chronically mentally ill, and seriously disturbed of all ages.
